

'Lycurgus' Reactions Surveyed

STUDENTS ENJOY NEW CAMPUS MAGAZINE, BUT MAKE SUGGESTIONS FOR POSSIBLE IMPROVEMENTS

A majority of student opinion, as indicated by a campus survey taken yesterday, reveals that Lycurgus, the new campus magazine, is off to a good start.

The most common criticism was that the magazine lacked complete campus coverage. The suggestion given was that more attention be paid to prominent figures on campus, and campus activities.

Photography seemed to be the most popular feature in the eyes of the readers. Opinion was divided on the stories, some saying that they were excellent, and others claiming that they were hackneyed and childish. Most of the students seemed to think that humor was lacking, suggesting an imitation of the "Pelican" and the "Chaparral."

One student suggested that fewer continuations of articles would have improved the layout of the magazine. Another remarked that the balance between advertisements and copy was very good.

More comprehensive sports coverage was recommended by a sports fan, who also suggested that the magazine might come out bi-weekly or at least monthly.

A fairly accurate summing up of the majority of opinions was given by a student who pointed out that the purpose of any student publication is to serve the needs and interests of the student body—above all, names and pictures of the students themselves should be used.

As to the name of the magazine, Lycurgus, most students questioned had no particular objection to it, but they were not wholly enthusiastic. Some suggested that a more collegiate or catchy name would have more appeal.

Bob Martin, business manager of Lycurgus, when questioned in the course of the survey, made the following statement:

"We want to publish a magazine comparable to the intelligence of a college student. We are planning to include some intellectual humor in our next issue—clever stories written especially for the magazine in the 'New Yorker' style. The main consideration with the magazine staff is what the students really want. There will be more pictures, and more campus activities reviewed in the next issue. We would like to eventually put the magazine out monthly, but for the present we will have to continue with a quarterly publication. We would welcome any suggestions from the students—it's their magazine."

Search For Queen

COED WILL REIGN AT POLY-ROYAL

A search has begun for the one beautiful girl, among the many at San Jose State, who will represent this college as Queen of California Polytechnic's annual Poly-Royal at San Luis Obispo, May 3 and 4.

Each year, according to custom, the men of California State Polytechnic college invite a co-ed from one of the co-educational schools in the state to rule as queen over their two-day celebration. The girl chosen to rule as queen at the college hey-day will be escorted throughout the proceedings by the man of the college gals' dreams, chosen from the 1000 or more men of Poly's students.

ONE OF THREE

The girl who is to represent San Jose State as queen of Poly-Royal will be elected from one of three by vote taken on our campus. All candidates for the contest shall submit one full length photograph and one portrait taken by Dolores Dolph, official photographer for the contest, to a committee of six judges.

Candidates shall be chosen through a process of elimination based on their pictures and on personal interview with the judges. The judges will review the prospective queens and name a final three from which the student body shall elect its choice.

HURRY!

The deadline for the entry of candidates has been set for April 12, and the judging will take place April 15. Girls entering the contest should have their pictures taken by appointment with Dolores Dolph in the Publications office. All expenses incurred on the trip to the home of Cal-Poly at San Luis Obispo will be paid by the California Institute, and Her Majesty will be accompanied to the Poly-Royal by Dean Helen Dimmick.

The judges officiating in the preliminary elimination contest are Dr. William Poytress, Mr. Dwight Bertel, Mr. L. C. Newby, Miss Alice Hanson, Al Johnson, Rowland Mitchell, and Pat Dunlavy.

According to contest rules, any number of candidates may enter and may be either independent or sponsored by an organization.

Carlson Views American Press

"The power of the American press lies in the various political stands each newspaper takes. On the surface this political confusion appears to be our weakness, but it is really our strength!" Oliver Carlson emphasized yesterday morning in his talk to the student body and faculty on "The Press and World Politics."

According to Carlson the American paper is primarily a business proposition . . . not a political enterprise. "The political influence on our newspapers is less today than it has ever been. Only 14 percent of the readers follow the political news. We buy for sports, society, etc., not especially for the editorial policy. In this respect the American paper is unique!" declared Carlson.

Carlson further explained that since the days of Andrew Jackson our country has not had such a thing as an administration organ. He said that the English, French, German, Italian, and Russian newspapers are either somewhat or completely controlled by the government, serving as an instrument in carrying out state policy and in molding opinion abroad.

Carlson, who is a lecturer and author, has traveled widely in Italy and Germany and saw the rise of fascism. He has also toured the Scandinavian countries making a study of "Cooperative Enterprise."

Committees Named For 'Holiday Splash' Swim Extravaganza

Technical committees were named yesterday for "Holiday Splash," the annual swimming extravaganza, which will be presented in the pool April 25 and 26.

Mr. Wendell Johnson of the Speech department will help in lighting the production and members of the Art department are assisting in the publicity and in preparing some of the properties, according to Miss Mary Wiley, director of this year's swim show.

Jewell Haddock and Allene Watt, assisted by Nancy McEuen, have been appointed to prepare the lighting for the production, and Arta Williams and Hazel Ench will attend to the music.

Costumes for the large cast will be under the chairmanship of June Robertson and the properties will be gathered by Eleanor Budisell and Nadine Gardner.

Kathleen Hungerford is chairman of programs and publicity; Bonnie McWilliams is in charge of tickets, and Noel Thompson and Katherine Sullivan will be in charge of the ushers.

HOME EC MAJORS GO TO BERKELEY

Four home economics majors represented San Jose State college at the annual workshop of college clubs of Province 15 of the American Home Economics association on the Berkeley campus last weekend. The girls who officially represented the Home Economics organization, Eta Epsilon, were Edith Richards, Gayl Quinn, Roberta Quinn, and Ruth Carlson; the club adviser, Miss Gladys Nevenzel, accompanied them.

Purpose of the annual workshop is to enable home economics majors to exchange ideas and discuss often-met problems. Thirteen colleges from Nevada and northern California were represented.

Friday's program consisted of addresses by prominent women in various fields of home economics and an intercollegiate contest on "How to apply for a job." An original skit written by Gayl Quinn and presented by four San Jose delegates won first prize.

Friday evening dinner was served at the College Women's club where home economics students from India, Norway, Sweden and Brazil were present. Speaker of the evening was Miss Xenia Zytomirski, the attache of the Polish Embassy in charge of cultural relations on the west coast.

Saturday was filled with round table discussions and next year's officers were elected. Gayl Quinn from State was elected vice president of the group.

He expressed the government's desire to keep Iranian matters on the council's agenda.

The plan endorsed to the hilt President Truman's demands for prompt unification of the Army, Navy and Air Forces.

Soft Coal Strike Still Unsettled

WASHINGTON—Soft coal operators and union spokesmen traded angry charges of "stalling" at the end of another fruitless bargaining conference yesterday and Labor Secretary Schwelienbach hinted at drastic government action if the nation-wide mine strike is not settled within the next few days. He told newsmen, however, that federal seizure of the mines was not contemplated and that his discussions had not even reached that stage.

File For Disability Pensions Now, Vets Advised By Adams

"That little scratch or the week you spent in the infirmary while in the service may have not been important then or now but if there is any indication of a hindering recurrence in the future, file for your disability pension now while the facts are still fresh in your mind."

This is the advice of Earl Adams of the local Veterans Administration. He says that some men have let this matter go until an old injury or disease recurs, causing a hindrance to their occupation. When they try to recall facts and dates they find their memory hazy on details, and the chances for full compensation are lessened.

National Insurance

An insurance policy is a necessity to the every day American. Most people of means would not think of going down to the corner without being fully covered in case of an accident.

Conscription is a nation's way of taking out insurance. War is no accident; that is why the need of conscription is so much greater. Had not the administration passed a draft law the war would certainly have lasted months, perhaps years longer than it did. It might even have ended in a victory for the totalitarian powers. Our pitiful pre-war Army of 170,000 regulars was certainly no match for the mechanized hordes of Adolph Hitler. We were lucky.

We will not be lucky in the next conflict. The atom bomb has made war more of a blitzkrieg than the Nazis ever dreamed. The few seconds of the bomb's terrible destruction far outdistances the tedious and costly year of training to put an army on the field. We must be prepared for any eventuality.

The pleadings of General Dwight D. Eisenhower are falling on the deaf ears of the senators composing the anti-draft bloc. Said he, "In my opinion, any gamble with national security of the United States at this time is a gamble with the peace and security of the world. . . . Marshal Zhukov (Soviet representative in Germany), one of the world's ablest soldiers, said he feared the United States was so peace loving that it will not be realistic. "Can any thing be more plain?"

General Eisenhower pointed out that General MacArthur would be in "real trouble" if the critical shortage of armed manpower was not alleviated immediately. The future of our meagre forces in Europe is just as uncertain.

The recent rebellions in the Pacific and the ill-fated coup of the revitalized Nazis in Germany are good barometers with which to measure our falling prestige and strength. Can we endanger the victory we so bloodily won by letting the pomposity and bureaucracy of the senators and representatives stand in the way of realism? The anti-drafters in Washington, led by the gaseous Senator Johnson, are attempting to amputate the strong arm of our Army which holds the Big Stick of Teddy Roosevelt. The plea of General Eisenhower for an extension of the draft law until July of 1947 is being ignored under the pretense that 18-year-olds do not make the type of soldier needed for the post war army. There are many veterans on this campus who entered the service long before their majority and they can easily vouch for the fact the 18-year-old makes an excellent soldier.

General Eisenhower estimated that the Army would need a minimum of 1,550,000 men by July 1 of this year and 1,070,000 on July 1 of 1947.

These are the facts and figures of the man who directed and won the war of Europe. He has been appointed the chief of staff of the Army of the United States. In him is kept the trust of safeguarding our nation from danger from foreign aggression. Are we to heed him or ignore him? —Pearson

Check Box In Coop; You May Have Mail

"Where's my letter of eligibility I sent for three months ago? When's my check from the government coming through? My women haven't written me in ages!"

A lot of these old cries could be cleared up if the students would check the mail boxes in the Coop now and then. Earl Adams, Veterans Administration local counselor, pushed by the pleas of worried vets, said that a student brought to him two letters of eligibility sent here two months ago, a veteran's check, and other veteran papers. Heaven knows how many old love letters are mildewing in the boxes.

Any student who addresses his mail to San Jose State college will find it in the student mail boxes in the Coop. Maybe you have something there.

GEE, I SAYS

By A. WHITE

I'm sittin' in the Coop feelin' kind of conspicuous and extra important in my store issue—even if the cuffs don't hit my wrists and the coat is sort of purple. It's my first civvies and they feels good. Comes this dame—a classy lassie with a classy chassis, like the poet says, and claims the next seat with a whirl . . . awful neat.

I gives her the glad smile and says, "You attendin' this institution of learnin'?"

Up goes her eyebrows. She gives me that "Who do you think you are?" stare, then she says: "Yes, I'm studying the Psycho-Analysis of Hysterical Paralysis," and gives me the size of her back.

"Oh," I says, "You should ought to take English first."

She gives me no answer, so I devotes myself to my devastatin' hamburger with onions.

"To the devil with dames," I mutters. "It's a good thing they don't bother me none, or I'd never get my work done."

Phillippine Refugee Comes To State For Education

Jose Gomez was on his way to Spain to begin a new life. War had ravaged his home on Negros Island in the Philippines, claiming his father in its wake, so Jose joined the Merchant Marine in order to get passage to Spain.

While in the Merchant Marine, Jose met a good friend, and a former Spartan, Charles Knight. It was because of Knight that he decided to come to San Jose State college to finish his education. Although he has attended college in the Philippines, Jose has entered State as a freshman because his records have not yet arrived from Santo Tomas, where he last attended school.

HAD ENGLISH

Here at State, Jose is a Journalism major; he has found it fairly easy to fit into school life, thanks to the English which he had been taking in the Philippine schools.

Jose's home island, Negros, was liberated from the Japanese by the guerillas in December 1944. The Japs had drawn the majority of their troops off the island to reinforce more important islands. It was a very easy job for the guerillas to wipe out the small garrison of about 30 Japs that remained in control of the island. In September 1945 Jose made his way to Leyte, where he joined the Merchant Marine.

GRADE SCHOOL

Jose likes American schools very much, although he finds them different from the private schools that he had attended. His grade school, Colegio del Nino Jesus, was administered by the Nuns of Charity. He went to high school at Colegio de San Carlos, and had about a semester of college work at the University of Santo Tomas in 1940. Jose's father called him home after completing one semester, because he feared that there was going to be a war.

INSTRUCTOR WEDS DEPARTMENT CLERK

Dr. Menjamin F. Naylor, chemistry instructor, and Mary Jo Creighton, clerk in the Science department office, were married in an end of the quarter ceremony at Stanford Chapel, March 23.

Dr. Naylor graduated from San Jose State and then received his PhD from Stanford in 1943. He has been teaching in the chemistry department since fall quarter. Miss Creighton has been employed in the Science department office for the past 18 months.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in Carmel and Yosemite.

Eagan And Elsass To Judge At Festival

Thomas Eagan and Frank Elsass of the Music department have been selected to go to Reedley, Calif., on April 12 and 13 to adjudicate the central district orchestra, band, and choral festivals.

This is the first time since the beginning of the war that the central district musical festivals have been active. The district extends as far north as Stockton and as far south as Ventura.

Men And Maids And Stuff

By MAX MILLER

(Thoughts on Spring, Accompanied by a Flute Player.)

After a week in the hill-country, where the weather still makes Operation Frostbite look like a boat trip to Catalina, we now spend our afternoons flaked out on the lawn getting a worm's eye view of the femme fatales that ankle by collecting hubba's from the viewers of the passing parade.

The long, low and interpretive whistle that has come to take the place of the verbal compliment to a lady's beauty is heard everywhere. The gee that said "in Spring a young man turns fancy" was possibly referring to the basic savagery that becomes increasingly evident in the male of the species after the turn of the season, but nothing has ever been said to our knowledge concerning the more subtle predatory deadliness of the girls.

It's a brand new blaze of glory red. It's the exclamation point of a soft white skin—It's a divine spark—it's a Heavenly Glow by Helena Rubenstein (that's what the ads say) and they all wear it or a reasonable facsimile thereof and soooo with that heavenly glow on her lips and Saint and Sinner behind her shell-like ears, as well as a gown that flatters where it matters, the modern college Miss ain't no Lena the Hyena from lower Slobovia. The big trouble with all this is that most of the little ladies are fully aware of their charms, even though they don't show it; and they have a way of creeping up on their prey like a breeze of carbon monoxide.

The morale of all this is directed toward all the boys in the crowd that aren't wary of their plight—If you are in the vicinity of any sweet young thing with a body by Fisher and legs by Chippendale, steer a large detour around her or you'll find yourself truckin' down the aisle to the rhythm of Lohen-grin . . .

SINATRA GETS IGNORED--HUH?

Frank Sinatra, the Voice, finally found somebody who has more crowd appeal than himself. He arrived at Hunter college in a big black limousine yesterday, according to the United Press, to visit meetings of the United Nations Security Council. But at the same time Andrei A. Gromyko, the elusive Russian delegate, drove up in another big black limousine, and Frankie went almost unnoticed as reporters and officials crowded around Gromyko.

Sinatra claimed he didn't mind a bit all the attention the Russian delegate received. He said he arrived quietly on purpose, though he could have gotten out a bobby socks brigade if he had wanted to.

"I'm here as an observer for the National Conference of Christians and Jews," Sinatra said. "I've got to get all I can out of this, and use it in talks against isolationism and discrimination of all kinds. And I've got my own axe to grind, too. I'm rooting for whoever brings up the Spanish question. We've got to sever relations with Spain until they get that guy Franco out of there."

"I'm just a crooner," said Frankie, "but, heck, even a crooner can want the world to last, can't he?"

J. C., picked as his favorite of those displayed "Daybreak," his most recent water color.

"I feel that an artist should paint as he feels," Daniels said. "My water colors are impressionistic."

The water color "Solitude" was painted in Tennessee, while Daniels was in the Army. It is one of the few that he was able to save of those painted in the Army.

"Many water colors drawn at the time were either lost or stolen," Daniels explained.

Some of the water colors displayed in the Art room have been sold. Two of these are "Pink Mares," and "Aunt Agatha," a nude stepping into the bath tub.

"The oil painting 'Lost Weekend' was drawn after I read the book," Daniels stated.

While in the service, Daniels designed the flag and insignia for the 306th Medical Corps. For this he received a special order of praise from the Adjutant General in Washington, D. C.

In addition to student teaching, Daniels teaches night school at Morgan Hill High school.

He hopes to get a job in New York as a costume designer when he finishes student teaching. Water colors will always be a hobby, Daniels said.

SPORTS SLANTS

By CHARLEY COOK

After an absence of four years Hal Sonntag will take over the mound duties for San Jose State tonight, probably in the second half of the Fresno doubleheader. The tall, lean right-hander gained valuable experience in the service by playing with several top flight army teams. A pitching staff mainstay during the pre-war years, Sonntag is a hard man to beat when in good shape.

During his service career he garnered several trophies, gold watches, and similar baubles by hurling his teams to All-Pacific and All-Hawaiian championships. Notwithstanding his previous record, Hal has been working out only a week with the college nine and does not expect to be up to par for his initial appearance tonight.

Enthusiasm radiates from the football coaching staff these days by reason of the 120 man turn-out of candidates for spring practice. However, we can't help but throw a little cold water on their enthusiasm when we check over the grid situation at the other three conference colleges.

Fresno State heads the list of dangerous opponents with a spring practice turn-out of 150 candidates, largest in the school's history. Most highly regarded of the Bulldogs is Jackie Fellows, a Bill Stern "All American" in '42. The Fresno coaching staff makes no secret of the fact that they are "loaded" with material and confidently expect to sweep the conference next fall.

Santa Barbara also has been recruiting star performers during the past months. Their roster reads like a Who's Who in service football for last year. Add several promising jaycees all-conference selections and you have a potent outfit that should equal any eleven on the coast this year.

Spartan Daily
SportsWinter Predicts Track Powerhouse
For San Jose State This Season;
Many Record-Holders Return

His track team loaded with potential power, Bud Winter is still dubious over the outcome of Saturday's triangular meet with Salinas Junior college and Alameda Naval Air station. "It is too early in the season to make any predictions," said Winter. "Most of my track men suffer from lack of proper conditioning. Later next month when the kinks, acquired from military service, are ironed out you can expect to see some high grade performances," he added.

POINT GETTERS

The great majority of Winter's better runners are pre-war stars and as yet have not approached their former championship marks. However, he is counting on first place points from any or all of the following: Thelno Knowles in the half mile, Billy Rhyme in the low hurdles and possibly the broad jump and quarter mile, Vern Cooley in the pole vault, either of the Overhouse brothers in the discus, Charley Blackwell in the 440, Bob Likens in the javelin throw, and Woody Linn in the shot put.

FOUR SPRINTERS

In the sprints Winter is hard put to name his best man. Four of his tracksters have times better than ten flat in the short dash and three men are grouped around 21.5 in the 220. A not unexpected occurrence would be a blanket finish with Art Beltran, Don Smalley, Bill Parton, and Bob Bingham finishing ahead of the van in either of the sprints. Craig Holden, speedy freshman with times of 9.9 and 21.7, is also expected to be a point getter.

Win, lose or draw, Winter welcomes the meet for the experience it will give to athletes long out of competition. It will also serve to tune up his men for the more important contests scheduled for later in the season.

FRESNO STATE BULLDOGS INVADE
MUNICIPAL BASEBALL STADIUM
FOR DOUBLE-HEADER TONIGHT

Heartened by the fact that he can field the strongest nine of the season tonight, Coach Ralph Johnson will send his Spartan ball club out to take both ends of a CCAA conference double-header from the Fresno State Bulldogs in San Jose Municipal stadium tonight at 4:30.

With the addition of Wil Watt and Mal Sonntag to the pitching staff and the return to form of hard-hitting Third Sacker George Smith, the Spartans will be looking for a double victory over their old rivals. The addition of Sonntag will give Coach Johnson a more

SPARTAN NETMEN
TO OPEN SEASON
FRIDAY AT SFS

The Spartan tennis team under the able guidance of Coach Bill Felse, former State student recently discharged from the Army, will officially open their 1946 campaign Friday afternoon in San Francisco when they tackle the San Francisco State Gators at 2 o'clock on the latter's home court.

Felse has his squad in the process of an elimination tournament that started yesterday afternoon, to determine how the netmen will be seated for their opening meet Friday with SF State.

32 IN TOURNEY

Thirty-two Spartans are competing in the elimination tournament that will continue today and tomorrow in an effort to cut the varsity roster to 10 top men.

The '46 net squad will be composed of the 10 top men, making up six singles and three doubles that will represent Sparta on the courts this season.

Hopefuls that are eliminated this week in tournament play will have other opportunities to climb on to the varsity roster, states Felse. After Friday's meet with the Gators, a perpetual ladder will be formed which will allow any racket wielder to challenge any one of the seated netmen.

Felse feels that in this way the top men will have to keep on their toes, and the more youthful aspirants will have numerous opportunities of getting back on the varsity roster.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

To date the following matches have definitely been set:

Friday, April 2, San Francisco State, there. A return match with the Gators is scheduled for May 3, at the San Jose Tennis club. The Spartans will meet the Stanford Indians at Palo Alto April 17.

April 27 the Spartan netmen will journey across town to tackle the Santa Clara Broncos, and the Santa Clarans will return the visit May 4.

Tentative matches have been scheduled with Humboldt State, Salinas JC, College of Pacific, and Menlo JC.

VARSITY PROSPECTS

A few of the Spartan racketeers who show a lot of promise in early season workouts include former State tennis players, Don McKenzie, Greg Sargent, and balanced pitching staff to throw against the Bulldogs. Up to this time, South-paw Jack Burtner has been Johnson's only consistent winner and Sonntag should give the port-sider some help.

HITTING BOLSTERED

Smith has been hampered lately with an injured hand but he reports that it's healing rapidly and won't give any trouble tonight. The Spartan third baseman's hitting has been a big factor in the locals' five wins this year.

A double win tonight would give the Spartans a tie for first place in the conference with San Diego State and an inside lane in the title race. They split with the Aztecs in the first series of the season on the El Cajon diamond and should do better when the southerners invade the Santa Clara Valley later in the year.

HAVE VETERAN TEAM

According to late information from Fresno, the Bulldogs have a seasoned nine with a sprinkling of promising newcomers. Back from the 1941 pennant-winning team are Angelo Petropoulos, pitcher and consistent hitter, Roy Taylor, who worked around the short field and gave the Bulldogs an added punch at the plate, and outfielder, Oliver Bidwell.

In addition to these regulars of the 1941 squad, Coach Earl Wight has a number of former high school stars on his club this year which gives him a well rounded outfit. The red and blue infield is reportedly the strongest in years, so the Spartans can't plan on too many breaks tonight.

LINEUP INDEFINITE

Coach Wight did not announce his starting lineup for either game tonight but will probably use Petropoulos on the bill in the opener. Either Dave Rogers, who played two years with Fresno before going into the service, or Jack Mann, hard hitting backstop from Exeter, will complete the battery.

The first game tonight is scheduled for 4:30 with the nightcap to go on immediately after under the lights.

Bert Landess.

Nate Morton, Bob Stuart, Keith Wilson, and Gene Franco have also showed a lot of stuff in matches held at the local San Jose Tennis club the past few weeks.

The PE department announces that the club will be all set for the Spartans' home appearance with six new nets adorning the courts.

(with an Arrow Sports Shirt)

Comes once again the indolence that follows the first robin. What to do?

This: Get the slickest Arrow Sports Shirt or Sport Knit you can find at your dealer's. (That won't be hard. Every one gets its share of fine Arrow looks and tailoring. Most of them are washable.)

The moment you're in its trim lines, you'll want to dash out for some golf, tennis, or you-name-it.

If not, you can always sit around in your Arrow and look like a retired champion.

P.S. If your Arrow dealer hasn't the one you want, try him again.

Motion Picture Production Cuts Shown In Art Wing

An interesting display of motion picture production drawings used in the making of "The Story of Doctor Wassel" is being shown in the Art wing this week through the courtesy of Woodrow Witt, an art major now student teaching.

Witt has spent some time in Hollywood and is greatly interested in the relation of photography to art. With the assistance of a relative in the MGM studios, he was able to procure the pictures.

The drawings are done in soft pencil with ink and wash technique fill-in. The relation of the drawings to the photographs and the production of the motion picture is shown in the display, along with a detailed blue print of the staging.

Dr. Marques Reitzel, head of the art department, says, "This display is a fine opportunity for students to get an idea of the type of art used in the making of a movie. The display will not be here very long as Mr. Witt has promised to show it at Salinas Junior college soon."
